Lots of Scars

The Life of a Scientist

by Richard (Dick) Collins

Foreword by Leonie Kramer

I have observed that, as most of us grow older, we appear to be unable to resist offering advice to those younger. It is almost as if we have to get it off our chest before it is too late. I am no exception. My advice consists of a few epithets that I have drawn from experience during my career, and that have been useful to me. Most of them are well known - a few are my own. So I now offer to you, dear reader, to do with what you will:

- THINK POSITIVE
- LEAD BY EXAMPLE
- EMPOWER YOUR PEOPLE
- IF WORRY WON'T FIX IT, DON'T WORRY
- YOU CAN'T RIGHT ALL THE WRONGS IN THE WORLD
- IF IT'S WORTH DOING, IT'S WORTH DOING WELL
- FORTUNE FAVOURS THE BRAVE
- MAKE THE WORLD A BETTER PLACE
- NEVER LOSE YOUR NERVE
